PURPOSE

All Catholic school communities in the Diocese of Wagga Wagga are committed to providing a safe and supportive environment for both students and staff. School communities have the right to expect that staff will remain professional in their interactions with children at all times by exercising appropriate duty of care and maintaining professional boundaries.

The purpose of this policy is to establish a framework for the Catholic Education Diocesan Schools System, recently branded as Catholic Education Diocese of Wagga Wagga (CEDWW) to comply with the requirements of the NSW Ombudsman Act 1974 to address complaints about alleged inappropriate behaviour by staff towards children in a way that protects children and also respects the rights of staff to a procedurally fair and confidential process.

POLICY FRAMEWORK

The CEDWW affirms principles central to the Church's teaching as expressed in the Student Welfare and Pastoral Care Policy, CEDWW. It expresses its commitment to "providing a safe, secure and stimulating environment conducive to learning. This is characterised by endorsing the gospel values of justice, inclusion, reconciliation, respect, truth and honesty. A safe and secure environment is developed when all members of the school community respect the individual's rights and freedoms, responsibilities and duties, as well as responding to the needs of students, staff and community." This is underpinned by the elements of promotion to safe supportive environments within the Pastoral Care and Wellbeing Framework of CEDWW.

Accordingly, this Policy:

- is inspired by the life and person of Jesus Christ and the teachings of the Church.
- is concerned to ensure the dignity and integral growth of every person.
- acknowledges the responsibility entrusted to all members of each Catholic school's community.
- seeks to promote healing, reconciliation, justice and liberation.

The CEDWW is responsible and accountable for promoting a culture in which employees are committed to ensuring the wellbeing, safety and protection of children. In particular, employees are required to:

- Act in accordance with their duty of care towards children;
- Maintain professional boundaries with children.

The CEDWW achieves this by:

- Ensuring that CEDWW staff understand the legislated and general duty of care obligation to address allegations against staff or other individuals concerning children;
- Providing staff with training regarding professional conduct and the handling of allegations;
- Providing staff with clear instructions to follow when allegations are made;
- Ensuring that opportunities to prevent harm to children and to promote safety and wellbeing are identified and responded to at an individual and systemic level.

Addressing complaints about alleged inappropriate behaviour by staff towards children

Complaints involving the alleged inappropriate conduct of an employee towards any child are addressed differently to other types of complaints in the school setting because of the legal requirements. A complaint of a child protection nature is any grievance raised by a person concerning the alleged behaviour or conduct of an employee towards any child.

Part 3A of the Ombudsman Act 1974 requires that designated government and non-government agencies (including non-government schools) must notify the NSW Ombudsman of any allegation of reportable conduct or a conviction related to reportable conduct involving an employee. These agencies are also required to properly investigate and respond to reportable allegations and convictions, and exempt allegations involving misconduct by an employee towards a child. For the purposes of this legislation, a child is a person under the age of 18 years.

The role of the NSW Ombudsman is to audit, oversight, and monitor or review the employer's response to reportable or exempt allegations including intake decision-making, and appropriate risk assessment, risk management and appropriateness of findings. The CEDWW has responsibility for establishing, maintaining and disseminating appropriate policies and procedures for responding to allegations against employees including the equitable implementation of intake, intake assessment, and risk management processes.

For the purposes of Part 3A Ombudsman Act 1974, the definition of employee is very broad. In keeping with the legislative definition, for the purposes of this policy, an employee includes paid employees, whether or not employed in connection with work that relates to children, and also includes any individual engaged to provide services to children in a school whether in a paid or voluntary capacity (for example, parent volunteers and members of the clergy who perform a task for a school are included in this definition of employee).

If a concern relates to the alleged behaviour or conduct of an employee towards a child details of the concern must

- be forwarded to the principal
- who must promptly contact the CEDWW Child Protection Team for advice, legal assessment, history check, risk assessment and determination of investigation pathway.

This procedure is to be followed in all complaints regardless of a principal's own assessment of the validity, depth, impact or seriousness of the complaint or the principal's professional opinion of the performance of any staff member.

In certain circumstances the complaint will also need to be forwarded to the Department of Family and Community Services (Community Services) or the NSW Police. After assessment, some complaints may be classified as 'not in jurisdiction'. This means that the matter does not need to be reported to the NSW Ombudsman. The reason for this is that one of the threshold requirements for notifying a matter to the NSW Ombudsman has not been met. These matters are referred back to the principal to manage at the school level. In accordance with requirements of The Ombudsman's Act records of the investigation, actions and findings by the Principal will be documented and kept for 45 years in all cases.

Managing Child Protection Complaints

Essentially there are two processes applied to managing child protection complaints:

- (a) Low level complaints (typically exempt conduct) and those involving low risk are managed by the principal.
- (b) Complaints involving alleged conduct which is more serious (typically reportable conduct) or suggest a higher level of risk are investigated by the CEDWW Child Protection Team, which will include outsourcing to independent investigation agencies on a rotating basis.

The investigation process will typically involve:

- interviewing the alleged victim and witnesses;
- gathering other relevant evidence;
- writing to the employee detailing the allegations and requesting a response;
- preparing an investigation report; and
- making findings on the outcome of the investigation.

At the end of an investigation, where there are sustained findings of sexual offence, sexual misconduct or serious physical assault, the employee's name will be notified to the Office of the Children's Guardian. The notification will trigger a risk assessment on the employee's Working with Children Check. Other possible outcomes of an investigation include:

- no further action,
- disciplinary action, or
- changes to policy and practice.

Employees have the following rights if a child protection complaint is being investigated:

- Procedural fairness including a timely, impartial and confidential investigation.
- No decision made until the staff member has an opportunity to know the details of the complaint and has an opportunity to respond fully.
- Information about the process, adequate and specific details to respond to the complaint, progress on the matter, reasonable notice regarding any meetings and information regarding the outcome and any findings.
- Support throughout the process by family, colleagues, union or legal representatives and an entitlement to free confidential counselling through the Employee Assistance Program.
- Review of the outcome, by writing to the Director of Schools or contacting the NSW Ombudsman's Office or pursuing their rights through legal channels.

The CEDWW accepts that when a complaint of inappropriate conduct by an employee towards a student who is over 18 years of age is received, that whilst the relevant child protection legislation does not apply, similar transparent and accountable enquiries and pastoral processes will be followed in response to such complaints.

Head of Agency function

The Bishop of the Diocese of Wagga Wagga is the Head of Agency in respect of all legislative responsibilities pursuant to Part 3A Ombudsman Act 1974 for the Catholic 'non-government designated agencies' within the Diocese. CEDWW is one such agency, and it undertakes to implement and establish all such policies, procedures, risk management strategies, professional development, and reporting mechanisms pertaining to CEDWW and school communities of the CEDWW as are required by the Head of Agency to enable the Head of Agency to fulfil his legislative and pastoral responsibilities with respect to matters relating to proactive and responsive child protection practices. The daily Head of Agency may be delegated by the Bishop to an employ in accordance with the Ombudsman Act and Regulations.

Reporting Requirements

CEDWW has responsibility for establishing and maintaining appropriate procedures for responding to and recording allegations of reportable and exempt conduct by a school employee towards a child. These procedures can be found in the Catholic Education Diocese of Wagga Wagga, Diocesan Schools System, Child Protection Resource Manual (under development).

Reportable conduct

In relation to Part 3A Ombudsman Act 1974, an allegation of reportable conduct is one involving:

- (a) any sexual offence, or sexual misconduct, committed against, with or in the presence of a child (including a child pornography offence or an offence involving child abuse material), or
- (b) any assault, ill-treatment or neglect of a child, or
- (c) any behaviour that causes psychological harm to a child whether or not, in any case, with the consent of the child.

Exempt conduct

An allegation of reportable conduct may be exempt from notification to the NSW Ombudsman or the NSW Office of the Children's Guardian if it involves:

- (a) conduct that is reasonable for the purposes of the discipline, management or care of children, having regard to the age, maturity, health or other characteristics of the children and to any relevant codes of conduct or professional standards, or
- (b) the use of physical force that, in all the circumstances, is trivial or negligible, but only if the matter is to be investigated and the result of the investigation recorded under workplace employment procedures, or
- (c) conduct of a class or kind exempted from being reportable conduct by the Ombudsman under Section 25CA.
